

Email marketing still ranks among the most effective forms of marketing. But part of that success comes from a specific aspect of email marketing: personalization. And for marketers to take full advantage of this, they can turn to dynamic content.