

Integrating different marketing platforms requires careful attention to your data. Poor data management can cause an integration to fail and make your job much more difficult. Today, we'll be looking at a few reasons why integrations fail, and what you can do to avoid them.