

A marketing automation audit reveals five critical health factors that distinguish systems optimized for growth from those silently deteriorating. Learn how architectural constraints, integration integrity, data governance, workflow reliability, and measurement discipline determine whether your platform supports strategic operations.