

Learn how customer preference management gives your audience control over how, when, and where they hear from your brand — and why it's the future of customer experience.

---

Marketing automation audits consistently expose preference management failures including fragmented multi-brand systems, missing opt-out audit trails, and channel synchronization gaps that damage customer experience.